Union Votes Strike On Eastern Mass.

By a two-to-one margin, 2100 employes of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway voted a general strike of the entire system to enforce wage and hour demands, officials of the Amalgamated Ass'n of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, AFL, announced today.

The strike, scheduled to become effective at 4 a. m. Saturday, would paralyze transportation for more than 800,000 persons in 20 cities and 51 towns from New Hampshire to Rhode Island.

The walkout was voted despite a warning by John F. O'Brien, international vice-president of the union, that the parent organization "does not and will not sanction a strike."

An attempt to avert the tie-up was made by Brig. Gen. Charles H. Cole, chairman of the State Board of Arbitration and Conciliation, who summoned company and union officials into a conference at the State House.

The outlook for settlement was dark, however, since Russell Withrow of Quincy, chairman of the union general conference committee, said:

"If Gen. Cole has no more power than he has previously shown, his intervention will have no effect whatsoever."

Gov. Tobin, informed of the strike vote, immediately conferred by telephone with State Labor Commissioner James Moriarty, who is in Washington. Results of the conversation were not disclosed.

O'Brien also moved to prevent the walkout by notifying A. L. Spradling, acting president of the international, of the strike vote. He said Spradling will "undoubtedly take action against the 11 locals if they insist on going out."

Withrow said he expected every employe would join the strike which he called a "showdown" between the company and workers.

"The men are demanding something better than the bonus proposition offered by the company," he said. "They want a 40-hour week the same as every other industry and they want a reasonable increase in pay to make up for the difference between their present pay and what they would get under a 40-hour week."

Jesse Levin, president of the Melrose local, said the men believed the Eastern Mass. "has been making fabulous earnings during the war". He said the workers wanted "something substantial instead of the two cent increases offered by the company".

The strike vote followed balloting by members of all locals with the exception of Salem, which will vote tonight. Withrow said that the results of the Salem balloting will not change the result even if they voted 100 per cent to remain at work.

Fred A. Cummings, company vice president, said the union sought an increase from 97 to $1.35 an hour for operators, a straight 40-hour week and 40 per cent boost for mechanics and maintenance workers.

The company offered a $100 bonus plus a $25 Christmas gift to all men employed between Oct. 2, 1945 to June 2, 1946, expiration date of the present contract.

Cummings said the strike is the 17th called by the union in the past three years. A similar walkout was averted last June when the company and union submitted their differences to arbitration.

Film Strike Spreads to 2d Studio

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 (AP)—A second movie studio, Universal, was mass picketed today by several hundred strikers at the same time that a predicted colossal show of striker strength failed to materialize at the Warner studio.

Union officials said yesterday probably 20,000 Lockheed workers would join the Warner pickets today. However, only about 400 Lockheed people joined the 400 movie pickets in orderly picket line, marching four abreast.

All those arrested yesterday were released on bail or their own recognizance.

DOCK STRIKE MEDIATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Union officials representing from 35,000 to 60,000 longshoremen on strike 11 days agreed to intervention from two sources today when they accepted offers to confer with federal conciliators and with Mayor LaGuardia.

Meanwhile, the crippling strike continued to tie up more than 350 ships, slowing redeployment of troops. Soldiers were detailed today to load supplies aboard the Queen Elizabeth for her return to Europe tomorrow. Several ships left in ballast for Europe to bring back troops.

NURSES IN WALKOUT

BRISTOL, Va., Oct. 11 (AP)—Ten nurses who walked out on day duty at King's Memorial Hospital here yesterday complied a list of grievances this morning but refused to make them public.

The nurses were engaged in what hospital authorities term "a strike without notification" in protest of an "administrative" matter and wage and hour difficulties.

The 63 patients are cared for by two staff nurses and four special duty nurses.

MYSTIC WALKOUT SETTLED

Union delegates ended a brief walkout of longshoremen today at Mystic docks, getting the men back to work within an hour after they left their jobs in a dispute over the time they were to be paid.

Ordinarily paid during the noon hour on Friday, officials planned to pay them instead at 5 p. m. today. The men insisted they should be paid during the noon hour and this was agreed to after union delegates conferred with stevedores.

COAL PEACE PRESSED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (INS)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach conferred with President Truman today on the coal strike conference and reported that the President is "very anxious" for the conferees "to get together."

STRIKE TIES MEDIC PAPER

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP)—For the first time in 62 years the Weekly Journal of the American Medical Ass'n was not circulated today because of a Chicago commercial compositors' strike.

Tieup Grows, Attlee Calls Cabinet

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee summoned his Labor cabinet into executive session today to consider the dock strike which spread to Glasgow and threatened Great Britain with a hungry week-end. All major docks faced imminent tie-ups.

The huge Glasgow docks were closed when 4000 Scottish stevedores joined the strike. The trouble there was over a dispute about handling 40,000 cases of Scotch whisky for the United States.

In all more than 46,500 are idle. Some 2500 more walked out during the morning at London and Newcastle-on-Tyne. Thousands more London dock workers were reported planning to strike later today.

The skimpy British ration of meat, butter, eggs, bacon, lard and oranges was threatened with drastic curtailment as warehouse reserves dropped to a menacing low.

DUTCH EYE BANK REFORM

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 11 (AP)—Finance Minister Pieter Lieftinck announced today his intention to appoint a commission to study the possibility of complete or partial nationalization of the Netherlands Bank.

FINED IN SLAYING—Merchant Marine Lt. John J. Lynd was fined $1000 and put on seven years' probation in Los Angeles after pleading guilty in superior court on a manslaughter charge that he fatally beat Benjamin J. Sullivan, the man he suspected of making love to his wife, Janet (left).

Saddest GI Homecoming

Flies Ocean to Funeral of 8 in Family

MORGANFIELD, Ky., Oct. 11 (AP)—Pvt. William H. Garrett, 23, was home today from the European war theater but his homecoming was far different from those of most GI's.

Rushed from Paris to New York on a plane bearing Gen. Mark Clark, Garrett was flown last night to Sturgis, Ky., Airfield to attend the funeral of his entire family.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Leslie Garrett, and his six brothers and sisters were killed last Saturday in an automobile accident near Providence, Ky. This afternoon they will be buried in the Morganfield Odd Fellows Cemetery.

When the big B-25 bearing the Waverly, Ky., youth landed at Sturgis, Garrett was visibly overcome by grief and had to be assisted from the plane by a crew member.

Members of the Sturgis and Morganfield posts of the American Legion met him at the airfield and took him to the home of friends to spend the remaining hours until the funeral.

1,250,000 Pacific Vets Coming Home in 6 Mos.

By JAMES LINDSLEY

TOKYO, Oct. 11 (AP)—American GIs will be returned to the United States from the Pacific at the rate of more than 200,000 a month for the next six months.

By the end of March 1,250,000 men will have been returned, leaving approximately 400,000 in the Pacific theater.

In Japan, four divisions (60,000 men) of combat troops, plus air service troops and special occupation units will remain. The Pacific forces will include 200,000 in Japan and Korea; 7600 in the Philippines and 36,000 in Okinawa and the rest of the Ryukus Islands. The rest of the 400,000 will be troops and service forces in Hawaii, the Marianas and other Pacific bases.

The mass movement from the Pacific will be handled through eight big processing centers at Honolulu, Okinawa, Saipan, Tacloban, Jinsen and Manila.

As of Jan. 1, divisions will be located as follows:

On Japan: 11th Air-borne, First Cavalry, 77th, 81st, 25th, 97th, 32d, 41st, 24th, 98th and 33d.

Korea, 7th, 40th and 6th.

Philippines: 93rd, 96th, 86th.

Divisions which will finally remain as occupation troops are the 11th Airborne, 24th, 25th, and First Cavalry on Japan; the 7th and 6th Divisions in Korea and the 86th in the Philippines.

An additional 26,000 men will be brought out of China by air over the "Hump" during November. Beginning in December, troops leaving China will depart through Shanghai.

By the end of the year probably the only American soldiers remaining will be low-point men engaged in surplus disposal or other operations connected with the final closing out of U. S. operations in India.

KOREAN MINERS OUT

TOKYO, Oct. 11 (AP)—A strike of coal miners in the Yubari mines has been settled, but 2000 other Koreans in adjacent mines continued their walkout today.

100,000 U. S. Troops To Quit India, Burma

NEW DELHI, Oct. 11 (AP)—U. S. Army officials estimated today approximately 100,000 American troops who have been serving in the India-Burma theater either will be on the way home or awaiting shipment at replacement depots in India by the end of November.

Wainwright Saw Jap Trick, Let Them Land

By GEN. JONATHAN M. WAINWRIGHT

(Copyright, 1945, King Features Synd., Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

The raid on Clark Field was over in 14 minutes, except for a little peppering by light Jap planes. I got to the field as the last of the large Jap bombers was drumming away. The place was a shambles, twisted and burning and sending great pillars of black into the sky. More than half of the new B-17's, which had just flown in, were scattered about the place in thousands of pieces. All the machine shops and hangars were down, and most of the officers' quarters and barracks.

I did what I could to organize the removal of the 193 dead and wounded. We had only three or four ambulances at Stotsenburg but we used trucks for the overflow and got the wounded over to our hospital. Ninety-three of the casualties were killed at Clark. Seven more died that night at our hospital.

Most of our planes were caught on the ground. Our fighters, such as they were, were not at Clark that day. They were based at a new field at Iba, on the coast of Zambales Province, about 40 miles north of Olongapo. They were hit just as suddenly, just as hard and simultaneously with the bombers at Clark. The fighters had been up earlier that day but had landed for fuel and lunch.

The Japs lost only two planes during the raid on Clark. These were shot down by the 200th Coast Guard Artillery's anti-aircraft batteries stationed in cantonment at the edge of the airfield.

As for enemy paratroops, the only chutists my Filipino troops captured that day were half a dozen American boys who bailed out of a disabled B-17. Cavalrymen from the 26th Regiment crashed through the thickets in a valley east of Clark and rounded them up at some risk to the fliers.

I rode back to Stotsenburg about 3 o'clock that afternoon for lunch, and found an American girl—a Mrs. Necker, wife of the manager of the Radio Corporation of America station at Manila—sitting on my front porch. She had been up to Baguio with friends over the week-end and had driven down to Stotsenburg before the Baguio raid. Her husband was supposed to meet her at Stotsenburg, but the Japs had knocked down one of the railroad bridges on the line leading up from Manila.

She was stuck, one of the first of so many defenseless American women caught in the machinery of war. Tom Dooley quickly found that there would be no train to Manila until the bridge was repaired. So I fixed up a room for Mrs. Necker and got through a call to her husband.

Mr. Necker seemed very grateful and asked me what he could do to repay me.

"Send a message to my wife and tell her I'm okay," I asked him. He did this, and sent other such messages, one of the last of which was a Christmas wire to Mrs. Wainwright just before the RCA station closed down.

I had thought of Adele a lot that first day of the war; had thanked God that she was out of it. But I missed her badly. There were so many things to say that cannot be said to anyone but a wife.

Tom Dooley drove Mrs. Necker to Manila the next morning, and on the same day the undamaged and patched-up bombers at Clark Field took off and went south—along with the unscathed bombers at Nichols Field. What was left of the fighters stayed on Luzon, to be whittled down in time to two planes. Throughout the whole coming campaign our fighters were used mainly for reconnaissance. There weren't enough of them to fight the enemy.

The rest of Dec. 9 was spent in telephoning MacArthur's headquarters and working at the job of getting all the personnel of my command at Stotsenburg under as much cover as was available. The 26th Cavalry was moved from its barracks and stables and camped in a nearby woods. The horses of the pack battery also were led to similar shelter. The men of the pack battery stayed at their gun positions in front of headquarters.

And that day I started to get some transportation for the North Luzon force. It was transportation of a laughable kind, though not at the time. I hired a number of ordinary passenger busses from two commercial firms, which eventually helped us in the long and heartbreaking withdrawal into Bataan.

I rented and bought smaller cars, too, for staff work, administration and couriers. When diligent efforts failed to unearth additional cars to rent or buy, I sent junior officers out on the roads and we got those cars by stopping them and requisitioning them on the spot. I was sorry about that, but our main chance of survival depended on our mobility. That I sensed, on top of sensing that MacArthur would be able to send me few of the supplies requested in the list which Johnny Pugh, my aide, had carried to Manila.

On Dec. 9 MacArthur's chief signal officer, Brig. Gen. Aiken, came to Stotsenburg to inquire which I needed in the way of communication equipment. My own signal officer, Josh Stansell, semi-explosively pulled out of his pocket a carbon copy of an unanswered requisition he had sent into MacArthur's headquarters some time before.

Gen. Aiken looked through it and shook his head. He handed it back.

"We can't do very much for you," he said. "You'll have to improvise."

So as of Dec. 9 we had only the public telephone and telegraph system for our communications, and our borrowed and appropriated transport system ranged from lopsided busses to sports convertibles. We had no Navy and no air force beyond the reconnaissance P-40's. All five of my divisions were still mobilizing. The 26th Cavalry, my pack battery and Philippine Scouts outfits were the only efficient combat units we had.

I drove up to Lingayen Gulf the next day, the 10th, to in-

3d Attack Foiled in Mattapan

Within an hour after a $1000 reward was posted for the arrest of the slayer of Miss Sarah Rodman, 43, of Fottler rd., Mattapan, another woman in the same neighborhood reported a man accosted her in the hallway of her apartment.

Mrs. Charlotte Kaplan, 26, Blue Hill ave., Mattapan, said the man chased her up the stairway but fled when her screams brought her husband.

Mrs. Kaplan told police the man was wearing a leather jacket which tallied with the description given of a man who attempted to snatch the handbag of an ex-WAC last night, only a short distance from the Rodman home.

The $1000 reward was offered by the Liggett Drug Co., owners of the Central sq., Cambridge, store where Miss Rodman was a pharmacist. The company referred to her as a "valued and respected employe."

MISS ROSE LESSOWITZ
Fights Off Assailant
INP by Lester McLellan

Gov. Tobin, taking official notice of the Boston crime wave, announced he would request the early release of 300 Boston policemen now in the armed services.

"I will immediately request the Secretary of Har and the Secretary of the Navy to release these men with the greatest possible dispatch," he said.

He instructed Police Comr. Thomas F. Sullivan to provide him with complete military and vocational data on the men still in service. He ordered the information submitted to his office by tonight.

Miss Rose Lessowitz of Mountain ave., Mattapan a former WAC, reported she struck a man in the face with her fist after he demanded her bag at Winston rd. and Wildwood st. She said she believed the heavy Air Force ring she wore cut his lip. She described her accoster as about 25, five feet, eight inches, and weighing 175 pounds.

"I had just escorted a girl friend home because she was afraid since the cowardly murder of Miss Rodman," Miss Lessowitz said. "I was on my way home when this man jumped at me.

"I punched him in the face and ran. When I got home I was so scared I'm still shaking.

"We ought to have more police officers in some of those dark sections of Dorchester. They seem to have plenty of men available to go around tagging cars."

Describing her assailant to police, Miss Lessowitz said he was dark-haired, hatless and wearing khaki trousers and a leather jacket with a sheepskin collar.

Furnished this description, police today pressed their search for the slayer of Miss Rodman while double funeral services for the victim and her mother, Mrs. Zelda Rodman, 70, who died after a long illness, were held from the Schlossberg Funeral Home, Mattapan.

The dual rites were conducted by Rabbi Wolf Mernick of Malden with several hundred relatives and neighbors in attendance. The burials were in Otis Field Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Bill Would Kill Essex Refuge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Moving to override plans of Sec. Ickes for a wildlife refuge in Essex County, Mass., congressmen from that state today introduced legislation which would force the government to return to former owners 12,000 acres acquired through condemnation proceedings.

Separate bills not only authorizing, but directing, Ickes to abolish the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge in Essex County were offered in the House by Reps. Bates, Republican, and Lane, Democrat.

In the Senate, Senators Walsh and Saltonstall, Republicans, are expected promptly to introduce identical legislation, said Bates.

Bandits Kidnap Revere Man, 2 Women in Car, Steal $500

Three gunmen today kidnaped a Revere restaurant owner and two of his waitresses in Revere and drove off with more than $500 in loot after dropping the trio in Chelsea.

Nathaniel Willey of Whitney ave., Saugus, owner of the International Clam House on Squires rd., told police he was driving home Evelyn Coombs of Westmur rd., Malden, and Florence McIntyre of Mountain ave., Revere, when the bandit machine edged him to the curb as he neared the latter's home.

While one man remained at the wheel, two others—one masked and both carrying guns—jumped to the side of Willey's machine. They ordered the restaurant owner and the two girls into the bandit car and then drove toward Chelsea.

During the ride, Willey was forced to turn over $330 in restaurant receipts, $150 cash he had in a pocket and a gold watch.

All were then ordered to get out and the gunmen roared away without even a customary warning. The girls were unharmed and Willey hailed a passing taxi to return to Revere and make a report at Revere police headquarters.

Willey and his employes were so shaken they were unable to give a good description of their kidnapers.

Willey's machine later was found near Miss McIntyre's home.

Glass Armor Saved Marines

By TRUDI McCULLOUGH

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Body armor, made of woven glass cloth bonded by a plastic resin, was used by Marine combat patrols on Okinawa. The armor was called Doron after Brig. Gen. George F. Doriot, who headed its development.

Only 3-16-inch thick, slabs of Doron were slipped into especially prepared pockets on life preserver jackets.

Body armor always had been identified with metal plate. The Army worked on the theory that when a bullet enters sand it stops quickly, because the impact, successively conveyed from grain to grain, is distributed over the equivalent of wide areas.

Doron is laminated by impregnating a roll of glass fabric with resin, plying up lengths of it and uniting sheets under heat and pressure.

The completed Doron is cut into four different patterns, to suit the body shape, and assembled into sets of eight pieces.

Peacetime possibilities include light row boats, containers for gasoline, hydraulic fluid and de-icer fluids.

Girl's Nazi Camp Charges Denied

LUENEBURUG, Germany, Oct. 11 (AP)—Testimony of 28-year-old Jewess that she was the only person to emerge alive from the Oswiecim gas chambers was declared a lie today by Franz Hoeszler.

He told a British military court trying him and 44 ohters on war crimes charges he had saved several hundred persons from death, but that the Jewess, Sofia Litwinska, did not figure in the incident in which she portrayed herself in the leading role and that her testimony was otherwise garbled.

Nurse Says She Deplored Deaths

WIESBADEN, Oct. 11 (AP)—Irmgard Huber, 44-year-old head female nurse at the Nazi murder factory at Hadamar, today told an American military tribunal before which she and six other attendants are on trial for their lives that she "felt terrible" about the uncounted number of persons killed there.

The nurse, thin and pale, asserted, however, she was warned "something terrible" would happen to her if she attempted to leave her post or refused to work.

Dostler to Learn Fate Tomorrow

Clear and Cool For Holiday

Today's clear and cool weather will continue through tomorrow to furnish an ideal setting for holiday football games throughout the Greater Boston area, according to the weatherman.

He predicted the temperature tonight would reach the middle 30's in the suburbs and the middle 40's in downtown Boston, with tomorrow being slightly warmer.

The weatherman also reported a seasonal rarity—the fact that at 7:30 a. m. the entire country, except for a small area in the Rokies, had been without snow or rain for 24 hours.

Striking Draft Board Sends 9 Boys Back Home

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, O., Oct. 11 (AP)—Nine 18-year-old Fayette County youths were told to return to their homes by their draft board today after the five-member panel had announced it would not draft men until the Federal government acted to settle the nation's major strikes.

Board Chairman Howard D. Fogle told the nine, scheduled for induction at Columbus today:

"Well, boys, you have fulfilled your duty by reporting here. As you probably know, we have refused to induct any more men until these strikes are taken care of."

Fogle told the group he and other board members conferred yesterday with Col. Clay M. Donner and Lt. Col. W. P. Averill, executive officers of the Ohio State Selective Service Office.

"They told us were were all wrong and we told them we were going ahead with it," Fogle said. "We have not changed our position."

Among the group reporting was Willard Wisecup, 18, father of a 6-months-old son. His wife accompanied him.

887 Veterans Here on 3 Ships

The S.S. Moses Cleveland docked at the Army Base today to debark 112 high-point veterans, including a Dorchester hero who lost an eye in the storming of Angio beachhead.

He is PFC Salvatore Zuffante of Center st., Dorchester, the first man down the gangplank, wearing his Purple Heart along with four battle stars.

Others were PFC Ray Johnson of Westwood rd., Stoneham, who spent 29 months in Italy, and T5 Felix P. Karawizky of Cottage st., Taunton, who has piled up 40 months overseas.

Earlier, the SS Jonathan Worth debarked 762 soldiers at the same pier, including three Greater Boston men.

They were Sgt. Charles Anderson of Bearse ave., Dorchester, a tail gunner wounded when his bomber was shot up over Liege, Belgium; T5 Morgan Foley of Crescent ave., Dorchester, who spent 35 months overseas, and Sgt. Richard McCoo of Hazel st., Cambridge, radar mechanic.

One other arrival today was the SS James Price, which brought home 13 veterans.

For more news of when "The Boys Come Home"—See Page 14.

"HAIL to Harvard sq. —I'll soon be seeing you," says T5 Richard H. McCoo of 18 Hazel st., Cambridge, as he debarks from the transport S. S. Jonathan Worth today at the Army Base. T5 McCoo is one of 71 New Englanders to arrive from Europe among 775 miscellaneous Army personnel. He is about to entrain for Camp Myles Standish.

Okinawa Typhoon Hits 90,000 GIs

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—John Adams, CBS correspondent, said in a broadcast from Manila today that 90,000 soldiers had been left without quarters, five killed and a score wounded in the typhoon which struck Okinawa island Tuesday.

Several correspondents on the first plane to take off from Okinawa since the storm reported "damage so great that, had it come a month earlier, it could well have changed the entire pattern of our occupation, and had invasion of Japan been necessary, it might have been a major military disaster."

"The southern part of the island took the worst beating, with nearly all Army and Navy installations destroyed," he quoted the correspondents as saying.

"The wind mounted to 120 miles per hour when the wind gauge went out. Sheet metal roofs, tent floors and debris went sailing through the air, while down on Naha airstrip, all but two planes were damaged, some flipped on their backs, others with wings or tail fins or controls blown away.

"No details were available on damage to naval installations, but as the plane circled the island this morning, the correspondents could see many small craft beached on the shore, and fears were expressed that naval casualties may run into several hundreds.

"Also hard hit were some 500 Army nurses in a transient camp en route to Japan. Although they suffered no casualties, they lost their tents and many personal belongings and were forced to ride out the worst of the storm, crouching in scores of ill-smelling native tombs, ancient stone sepulchres that dot the hillsides of the island."

Stowaway Bride Awaits Hubby's Return to Boston

Donesse Nancy Heath Kuhn, radiant 20-year-old stowaway bride of an American ex-GI and held in custody of immigration officials until her status is determined, today eagerly awaited her husband's return to her side, buoyed by dreams of the cozy little cottage in Rochester, N.Y., already prepared for them—and the baby she is expecting in March.

Detained after she had stepped ashore from the gangplank of the SS Irvin MacDowell with her husband, Robert Kuhn, 23, former soldier and now mess attendant on the ship which brought them to Boston, the bronze-haired, blue-eyed bride was not in the least perturbed over her plight.

Immigration officials here today said there are two grounds on which she might be denied entrance. They pointed out that the visa she carried had expired and that she could be barred because she was a stowaway.

The local board of special inquiry is studying her case and will question her husband as soon as he returns here. Then, the matter will be referred to the Board of Immigration Appeals in Washington, whose authority is final.

Until that decision is made she will remain at the immigration detention quarters in East Boston.

"Bob had to sail with his ship to New York after debarking passengers here, but he has promised to get leave and return to me as soon as possible," she explained.

"I can't say we really planned anything," she said, "but I had hoped that when we got to Boston we might be able to go to our home—the small cottage that Bob bought for us just a few weeks after we were married last December. That was when he got his leave and came back to Rochester.

"This is my husband's country and here is where I belong. I just couldn't bear to see him sail without me."

Details of the romance told by Mrs. Kuhn disclosed that her husband had been discharged from the Army and had joined the Merchant Marine in order to rejoin her in England.

"The ship sailed from Barre, Wales," the young bride said, "and Bob sent me a wire, telling me to take the night train and meet him at the pier to say good-by. I packed a little overnight bag and set out. But he was already aboard when I reached Barre.

"I couldn't bear to have him leave me, and on the spur of the moment I just went on board, climbing the ship's ladder in the dark. I had my passport and visa, but as a civilian I would have had to wait at least a year for transportation to America. And that seemed too long."

For four days she hid beneath her husband's bunk, until seasickness overcame her. Then her husband went to the captain and reported the "surprise passenger."

"The captain was wonderful," she said. "I ate in the captain's mess and walked the captain's deck. And now I'm glad I got on that boat."

The GI and the English girl met in Tidworth, her native town, in 1942. He was with the First Division when she had sought refuge from the bombing of Coventry, where she had worked as a clerk.

"It was really a pickup," she laughed. "My sister and I while walking home met two American soldiers, and they spoke to us and we walked together. One of them was Bob. He left England for Italy, where he was wounded and imprisoned, and when he came back two years later, after escaping from a prison camp four times, we were married."

Laval Demands Death at Once

PARIS, Oct. 11 (INS)—Pierre Laval today tried to force his immediate execution in the hope it would overthrow Gen. de Gaulle.

The "Black Peter" of the dark days of France told his daughter Josie in his death cell at Fresnes prison:

"I refuse to permit efforts of my lawyers to secure a retrial. I am determined the execution be carried out immediately.

"Prepare at once for my death."

Former Premier Paul Reynaud, condemned and imprisoned by the Vichy government during the German occupation, today headed a list of prominent French figures demanding a new trial for Laval, his political arch-enemy.

C G's Get Even With Barkeep

Three coastguardmen "got even" in municipal court today when Joseph Perry, of Dorchester ave., Dorchester, bartender in the Showtime night club, was found guilty in municipal court on six charges involving sale of alcoholic beverages to minors.

The trouble started last Aug. 24 when the trio, Charles Powell, Peter Palmitesta and Darrell W. Rosier, all 19, entered the club and ordered drinks and beer chasers. An argument ensued over the charge of $2.90 for the drinks and finally the Shore Patrol arrived and hauled the servicemen away.

They returned Sept. 12 and ordered three beers, which Perry served them and they drank before calling in the law.

On neither occasion, they said, were they questioned about their ages.

Judge Frank W. Tomasello imposed fines of $5 on each count for a total of $30 and gave Perry until Oct. 31 to pay.

Fighting in China Brings U. S. Marines

TSINGTAO, China, Oct. 11 (AP)—American marines of the Sixth Division landed from Seventh Fleet ships at this North China port today. They arrived on the heels of unconfirmed reports of sporadic fighting between Chinese Communist and Nationalist forces over who is to replace the Japanese in authority.

Blonde Gets GI Haircut

DETROIT, Oct. 11 (AP)—Esther Schlum, 19, came to the prosecutor's office today carrying most of her strawberry blonde hair in a paper bag. Her story:

It had been hacked off by a soldier who was angered when she was late returning his car which he had loaned her for a shopping trip. It was a long trip and her return was delayed by a flat tire.

The soldier was waiting at her home when she got back at 5:30 a. m. He seized her, into a chair and cut off her hair in chunks.

A warrant was signed and detectives sent to Camp Grant, Ill., to return the soldier suspect.

WINS DIVORCE—The final decree from Artie Shaw, bandleader, was secured today by Mrs. Elizabeth Kern Shaw, the daughter of Jerome Kern, famed composer, in Los Angeles. She retains custody of their 2-year-old son, Steven.

Spending Flayed In Tax Debate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—House debte on the $5,350,000,000 tax reduction bill today stirred up an avalanche of criticism of the Administration's spending policy.

Republicans, including minority leader Martin of Massachusetts, and Rep. Knutson of Minnesota, led the assault, joined by Democrats suc has Rep. Doughton of North Carolina, chairman of the ways an dmeans committee who declared:

"To make taxes bearable, it is important all non-essential federal spending be eliminated."

Martin asserted "if we have any regard for the welfare of the common man, we will know and we will act upon the knowledge that the luxuries of government come from the bread of the people."

Knutson charged that "many of the tax increases that have been imposed upon us in the past 13 years were made necessary by New Deal waste, and squandering of the taxpoyers' money."

Jury Gets Attack Case Against 4 Hub Youths

Cases of four youths, charged with attempted criminal attack, and a fifth charged with attacking Mrs. Mary Anton, 26, divorcee and mother of two children, in a North End parking lot, were given to a Suffolk County jury today by Judge Nelson P. Brown.

He directed the jury to return verdicts of not guilty on indictments charging the five with conspiracy to attack the young woman and on another charging Americo Scarinci, 19, of Hanover st., with robbery of $2 from the woman.

Scarinci is charged with attempted criminal attack along with Mario Pagliuca, 17, and Donald Biasuicci, 17, both of Hanover st., and Gino Vadala, 18, of Oneida st., South End. Joseph J. Perez, 18, of Battery st., North End, is charged with criminal attack.

Scissors Holdup Charge Holds 2

Two Dorchester men who allegedly used a pair of shears as a holdup weapon in a downtown hotel were held for the grand jury in $2000 bail each today after they pleaded not guilty in municipal court to a charge of robbery.

They are Joseph J. Mahoney, 27, of Levant st., and Robert S. Beers, 26, of Ottawa st., who made the mistake, according to testimony, of taking a sailor's keepsake watch.

George McGinn of San Francisco, now attached to the Fargo Building, told the court the pair held a pair of shears at his throat, demanded his money and tore a cherished gift watch from his wrist.

That made him mad. He chased the pair up a stairs, he said, felled Mahoney and yelled for police who captured the other alleged thief.

Suspended Term For Cop's Assailant

Charged with assault and battery on Patrolman Michael J. Griffin during the V-J Day celebration, Aug. 15, Frank Lanza, 28, of Foster st., North End, today was found guilty in municipal court and given a suspended jail term of one month.

Judge Frank Tomasello also fined him $5 for drunkenness.

GENEROUS 11-year-old Lonnie Cullen of Cincinnati, O., gave away more than $200 of his $980 fund to two youths he met in a detention home after he was picked up by Dayton, O., police in a railroad station. Previously he bought "Trixie," the clever pup he is holding. Where he got the money has police baffled, for Lonnie isn't saying a word.

Palestine Jews in Arms Raid

JERUSALEM, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Palestine military headquarters announced today a large number of armed Jews raided the Palestine training depot early this morning, overpowered the guard and fled with a quantity of weapons and ammunition.

The raid resulted in a sudden increase in tension which had been reported lessening last night following teh arrival of several thousand British reinforcements and the withdrawal of police cordons around the villages of Beth Oren and Yagur.

Police had encircled the towns in an effort to capture 200 Jews who killed one British constable and injured an Arab and a Jewish policeman as they fled from the clearance camp whe they had been detained for illgal entry into Palestine.

Meanwhile, in Tel Aviv, a police communique said pce were stoned by "a large mobhen they sought to carry on routine search."

N. E. Jewry Sent Plea To Truman and Hee

Adopted at a mass meeting of New England Jews and Christians in Faneuil Hall to protest the British White Paper restricting Jewish immigration to Palestine, a resolution urging President and the State Dept exert every effort for immediate opening of Palestine was on its way to the White House today.

The resolution also calls upon Prime Minister Attlee to rescind the White Paper as unjust and a breach of faith.

Hundreds of persons of all faiths jammed the Cradle of Liberty and heard distinguished churchmen and state officials express sympathy for the Jewish cause, and condemnation of the White Paper policy as unjust and a breach of faith.

Hundreds of persons listened outside to the speeches relayed to them by a loud speaker system.

Rabbi Isidore J. Passow was chairman of the meeting, which opened with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and prayer by Rabbi Henry H. Rubenovitz, Rabbinical Assembly president.

Speakers included Gov. Tobin, Ralph F. Bass, chairman, New England Zionist Emergency Council; Jacob Polak, state commander, Jewish War Veterans; Dean Howard LeSourd, B. U. Graduate School; Rev. Emory S. Bucke, representing Bishop Hartman, Methodist Church; Rev. David R. Hunter, representing Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill, Protestant Episcopal Church, and Thomas Bowe, representing the AFL.

Messages of support were read from Archbishop Richard J. Cushing, U. S. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, Cong. John W. McCormack and Rev. Stephen S. Fritchman, editor of the Christian Register, Unitarian.

Plans London Visit for Duchess

LONDON, Oct. 11 (INS)—The Duke of Windsor left England for Paris today saying the next time he came back "the duchess is coming with me."

During his short visit the Duke saw his brother, King George VI, and his mother, Dowager Queen Mary.

His statement was interpreted to mean he had been successful in waging a fight for the duches' status.

Ex-Red Editor to Notre Dame

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Confirming reports that he had resigned as president and managing editor of the Communist paper, The Daily Worker, Louis F. Budenz announced today that he plans to leave New York almost immediately for South Bend, Ind., to join the faculty of Notre Dame University in the department of economics.

Budenz said he was renouncing all ties with Communism and returning to the Catholic faith, "the faith of my fathers."

First news that the editor was turning his back on the Communist movement with which he had been associated for 10 years was made public by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, famed Catholic educator.

A Daily Worker spokesman said the newspaper planned to carry no story about Budenz in Thursday's issue and he refused to confirm or deny the resignation. Today the paper's masthead still named Budenz as managing editor.

L. F. Budenz

Budenz disclosed that his wife and three daughters have joined him in becoming Catholics.

"Reason and faith have led me to this happy step," said Budenz.

"I have resigned the managing editorship of the Daily Worker and have severed my associations with the Communist movement. Communism and Catholicism are irreconcilable.

"Communism, I have found, aims to establish a tyranny over the human spirit; it is an unending conflict with religion and true freedom."

Msgr. Sheen, who had criticized Budenz' writings in a pamphlet, "Communism: Answers to a Communist," five years ago, received the Budenz family into the Catholic Church.

Referring to his religious decision, Budenz said:

"With deep joy, I wish to announce that by God's grace I have returned fully to the faith of my fathers, the Catholic Church. My wife, the companion at every step of my spiritual journey, and my three daughters, have become Catholics with us.

"Reason and faith have led me to this happy step. In a storm-tossed world, the Catholic Church is the great rock upon which human beings can find refuge and a tower of strength.

Hint A-Bomb Defense, Ask Huge Navy

By RAYMOND WILCOVE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (INS)—The House naval affairs committee intimated today that an effective defense has been developed against the atomic bomb and urged approval of a powerful postwar navy of 1082 combatant vessels, 12,000 planes and 600,000 men.

In a report to the House, the committee said: "There are indications that an effective counter-measure to atomic bombs has been developed to such an extent that they can be exploded far short of their objective without the necessity of locating their position.

"Knowledge of electronics promises ability to detonate atomic bombs at great distances by radio," the committee said, adding America must keep intact the most powerful Navy in the world. The annual maintenance cost of such a postwar sea arm would be $3,525,000,000.

Gold Braid Abounds On Transport Bickett

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—The troopship Thomas Bickett arrived today with what was believed to be the largest indicidual complement of Army officers to arrive here since the end of the war.

Among the 743 officers and men were 14 colonels, 15 lieutenant colonels, 28 majors and 33 captains. Lieutenants were "like nothing more than privates," one junior officer said.

Comedy, Music Join To Aid War Fund

Both the humorous and classical in entertainment will be presented tonight at Boston Garden, when Jimmy Durante and his side-splitting troupe will share the spotlight with Dr. Serge Koussevitzky and the Boston Symphony Orchestra at the Victory show to boost the Greater Boston United War Fund.

Campaign Chairman Michael T. Kelleher announced that total contributions to the fund have reached $4,451,316 or 57.4 per cent of the $7,750,000 goal.

Doors of the Garden will open at 7 p. m., and the program will start at 8. Jimmy Durante and his troupe will open the show, and a dialogue by Greer Garson and Lt. Richard Ney will climax the first part of the program.

Gov. Tobin and Mayor Kerrigan, Chairman Kelleher and Community Fund Pres. Charles Francis Adams will address the audience during intermission. Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., president of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., will be guest speaker.

In the second half of the program, Dr. Koussevitzky and the Symphony Orchestra will present two movements from Tchaikovsky's Fifth Symphony, the Blue Danube Waltz by Strauss, the Semper Fidelis and Stars and Stripes Forever marches by Sousa, and, as the feature, the first symphonic playing of the waltzes from Richard Rodgers' "Carousel."

Back Bay Couple Held for Polygamy

Arrested as a result of a non-support complaint by his first wife, Robert P. Stubbert, 40, and Mrs. Bertha Comeau, 36, of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay, pleaded not guilty to charges of polygamy in municipal court today and were ordered held in a total of $1300 for hearing Oct. 16.

Police told Judge David B. Keniston the couple were married in New York last Sept. 19 and that Mrs. Comeau's divorce obtained in Worcester last July from Albert Comeau had not become final. Stubbert told police his first wife divorced him a year ago.

Hero Medic on LST Proves to Be Monk

South Pacific service papers please copy!

That brave and kindly medico aboard LST 547 whom the Navy listed as PhM Vincent G. Monaghan, the man who cared for the wounded and dying at Finschafen until he himself blacked out from a punctured lung and fractured ribs, was a monk.

And until today, when he himself revealed it in Gloucester, where Abp. Cushing has set up the first New England foundation of the Order of Hospitaliers in Hammond Hall, even the Navy didn't know.

PhM. Monaghan is Brother Camillus—or vice versa.

When the war broke out in the Pacific, Bro. Camillus was on nursing duty at the Hospitallers Hospital in Los Angeles.

He thought of his vows of poverty, chastity and obedience, and of the fourth vow of his nursing order "to aid the sick and dying even at the risk of life," and decided he should enlist.

He confided this belief to his superiors, who agreed.

Not being an ordained priest, he couldn't go to war as a chaplain. And walking into a Navy recruiting office in his black monastic robes might have caused confusion and embarrassment, so he donned civvies.

"It wasn't that we misled the Navy," he recounted. "They just never asked me, so I never mentioned that I was a member of a religious order. I was prepared in advance to serve faithfully as a Navy man.

"My two brothers are physicians in the Middle West; my sister is a registered nurse; I had my birth certificate as a native American, my papers as a trained nurse, and I had no difficulty passing the written Navy examination to qualify as a pharmacist's mate."

Today, Iowa-born Bro. Camillus holds the Purple Heart and a medical discharge for wounds received in action.

He served at Woodlark, Milne Bay, Kiriwina of the Trobriand group, Finschafen, Salamaua and Lae.

He worked on bloody beachheads in blazing battles throughout the South Pacific for almost three years. He ended up at Finschafen, a stretcher case himself.

"My old shipmates are going to be surprised when they learn this," he said with a smile.

Bro. Camillus confided, however, that the Navy men with whom he served realized he was religiously inclined, even though his superiors had dispensed him from saying his office or praying at stated times.

Once, when things were tough aboard ship, Bro. Camillus recalled, the officer on the bridge shouted:

"Hey, Monaghan, get out that rosary of yours and see what gives."

British Oust Mayor of Cologne

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 11 (AP)—The British have dismissed Dr. Konrad Adenauer, American-appointed mayor of Cologne for "not enough energy" in carrying out his duties, particularly in finding accommodations for homeless civilians.

His dismissal followed the ouster of Dr. Hans Fuchs, president of north Rhine Province for lack of energy in removing Nazis from his administration.

New Assignment For 104th Division

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Cal., Oct. 11 (AP)—Two thousand men of the 104th (Timberwolf) Division, with point scores between 49 and 60, are being assigned to the station complement of the San Francisco and Seattle ports of embarkation.

The battle-hardened European fighters are expected to release higher point men for discharge "and to perform tasks essential to the return of Pacific veterans."

NASH PLANT IN MEXICO

DETROIT, Oct. 11 (AP)—George W. Mason, president of Nash-Kelvinator Corp., said today that negotiations have been completed for the construction of a large assembly plant and the distribution of Nash automobiles and parts in Mexico.

Jap Premier Given Order for Reforms

TOKYO, Oct. 11 (AP)—Gen. MacArthur met the new head of the Japanese government—Premier Baron Kijuro Shidehara—for the first time today and gave him instructions for wide social and political reforms which will require liberalization of the Japanese constitution.

MacArthur, likewise, put it squarely up to Shidehara to take prompt and vigorous action to see that the Japanese people are clothed, fed and housed during the coming winter.

The meeting, at MacArthur's headquarters and initiated by Shidehara shortly after he had completed his cabinet and called on the Emperor, came shortly after the Allied supreme commander had directed the Japanese government to report within 90 days all foreign exchange assets, including private holdings and foreign properties of the Imperial household.

Allied headquarters also announced revocation of permission to the Japanese to operate an air courier and liaison transport service. The job will be taken over by American airmen.

Cost of the war to Japan from July, 1937, to its end was indicated by the commercial daily paper, Nippon Dangyo, which said the Japanese funded borrowings at the end of July, 1945, amounted to 114,289,000,000 yen ($6,619,266,666).

The reforms which MacArthur told Shidehara must be made included votes for women, labor unionization, liberalization of education, abolition of all secret governmental police and revision of monopolies.

The order for the report on foreign exchange assets was the sixth step taken in bringing about control of Nipponese finances.

Previous directives had:

Forbidden import and export of foreign exchange.

Forbidden foreign exchange transactions within Japan.

Closed wartime imperialistic banks and ordered seizure of assets.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Vatican to Name 7 Saints in May

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 11 (AP)—Msgr. Enrico Pucci's Vatican News Service said seven new saints will be proclaimed in May, 1946, including the Blessed Francesca Saverio Cabrini who founded the missionaries of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

Mother Cabrini died in Chicago in 1917 and was beatified in 1938.

Msgr. Pucci also reported that a consistory could be considered sure for December, 1945, but he did not say how many new Cardinals would be created.

Pal Turns in Back Bay Man, $30,000 in Loot Recovered

Turned in by a pal recently sent to State Prison, a 34-year-old Back Bay man was seized by Quincy and Boston police today in connection with a series of Greater Boston breaks which netted $30,000 in loot.

The suspect was trapped in a stolen machine in front of his Back Bay home, shortly after two 22-year-old girls—one a sweetheart and the other a friend—had been picked up by police in Belmont.

A charge of suspicion of breaking and entering and larceny was placed by Quincy police in connection with a $6000 robbery last Aug. 30 at the Dixwell ave., Quincy, home of Nicholas Papani. Included in that loot was a bracelet worth $1500 and a diamond studded watch valued at $950.

Recovered in the Back Bay home were thousands of dollars worth of other loot, some of which police said had been linked to recent breaks in Belmont, Watertown, Newton, Brookline and Cambridge. Police of all those communities joined in the investigation.

Lt. Fred Young of the Quincy police said a Milton man, a former confederate now in prison, had given the tip-off on the two girls, then on the Back Bay suspect.

A guard of Quincy and Boston officers had waited at the suspect's Back Bay home for 48 hours before he appeared in the stolen machine.

Saves Family Despite Burns

Burned by flames which enveloped his first floor bedroom today, John R. Crowley, 30, Broadway, Cambridge, spurned medical aid to rescue his wife and three sons trapped in the basement.

He awoke to find the room where he was sleeping a mass of flames and fought his way to the street. Realizing his wife and children were in the basement, he forced open a window and Mrs. Crowley passed the youngsters out to him.

The fire was confined to the Crowley apartment.

GI Up for 7th Time, Court Halts to Write Vet Bureau

Informed by a discharged disabled veteran he had been unable for more than a year to get action on his request for disability reclassification, Judge Wilson suspended his Suffolk Probate Court session today to dictate an urgent letter to the Veterans' Bureau.

The veteran, Ross C. Selig of Lakewood dr., Stoughton, was in court for the seventh time since May 31 on the petition of his wife, Mrs. Helen Selig of Roxbury st., Roxbury, that he be held in contempt for being in arrears in payment of separate support.

Selig explained he has been receiving 10 per cent disability, amounting to $11.50 monthly and that he had been trying unsuccessfully to get action on an increase.

Judge Wilson halted the court session and summoned a stenographer to the bench and dictated the following letter to officials of the Veterans Bureau in Boston.

"As judge of the Suffolk Probate Court there has come before me on seven occasions between May 31 and Oct. 11 the case of Helen Selig against Ross C. Selig, involving necessary support for their daughter, Dorothy.

"I have been informed repeatedly by Selig that, although he was discharged in September, 1943, because of a bad heart, and for a long time since has applied for compensation, there has been no action during all these weeks and months except the granting of 10 per cent disability, amounting to the munificent sum of $11.50 per month.

"As incidental to the proceedings now pending, I would appreciate early action in this case."

Mrs. Selig obtained a separate support decree in May, 1936, with payment of $8 weekly for her two daughters, Helen, now 20, and Dorothy, now 16.

Last May 31, she brought her contempt petition, charging Selig with being $590 in arrears.

Vets Head Charges Loan-Shark Racket

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—A spokesman for the Veterans of Foreign Wars complained to Congress today that many veterans are being "chiseled" by money-lenders under the "GI Bill of Rights."

Omar B. Ketchum, legislative representative, said the VFW had heard of numerous cases where a veteran, applying to a lending institution for a loan, was requested to deposit "earnest money," which is forfeited if the Veterans Administration declines to approve the loan for a government guarantee.

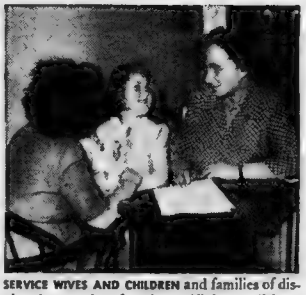
Victory means greater needs

ON THE HOME FRONT

VETERANS need help in readjustment to civilian living. Many thousands of them will look for employment, counseling and occupational information at the Red Feather Job Counseling Center.



SERVICE WIVES AND CHILDREN and families of displaced war workers face changed living conditions. They need help to adjust their lives, and will look for aid from Red Feather family agencies.

THE HELPLESS AGED need sympathetic care, in peace as well as in war. Last year Red Feather homes for the aged provided peaceful living in a friendly, homey atmosphere for 99,605 persons.

AND ON THE WORLD FRONT

TENS OF THOUSANDS OF SERVICEMEN are still serving abroad on occupational duty. Loneliness and homesickness will be even greater for these men now that peace is here. USO Camp Shows will bring a touch of home to them in faraway places.

MERCHANT SEAMEN made a glorious record of heroism in war. United Seaman's Service Clubs will continue to bring American cooking, clean lodgings and friendly aid to these men who must do the big job of bringing our armies back home.

THE STARVING AND HOMELESS people of our allies overseas face the grimmest winter in history. American aid to them is absolutely vital if peace is to be preserved and civil war avoided. United Nations Relief Agencies are going to help them.

THESE are just a few of the reasons why the Greater Boston United War Fund needs $7,750,000 this year. Victory in war has been won — but the distressing problems of neglected children, of indigent old age, of sickness and suffering are still with us in peace time. In addition, there are new problems of adjustment for thousands of family relationships which have been complicated by the war, and for tens of thousands of veterans. Lastly, the preservation of the peace abroad absolutely depends on our aid to those who have lost everything in six years of war. Unless each of us digs down and contributes more generously than ever this year, we shall lose in peace time what we won in battle.

spect the beach defenses of the 11th and 21st Divisions. A number of Jap planes shot over us on the way, going south as we went north. But we were not molested. It seemed like a good omen at the time, but when I got back to Stotsenburg that night I knew where the bombers I saw earlier in the day had gone. My post was half-wrecked.

Worse, the bombers had sighted that part of the 26th Cavalry assigned to guard against paratroop landings and had wiped out a distressing number of men and horses, including some of my few seasoned men.

All of them and their mounts would have been smashed if Col. (later Brig. Gen.) Clinton A. Pierce, a great little fighter from Brooklyn, had not seen to it that part of the 26th stayed in the woods.

It is hard to see a man die. But for a cavalryman it is almost equally hard to see a gallant horse die. The 26th lived to see them all die, one by one.

The Japs invaded the Philippines Dec. 12, 1941. They struck and landed at little Aparri, on the northern tip of Luzon, and on the far southeastern coast of the Bicol Peninsula at Legaspi. I was back at Lingayen Gulf that day and when I got my report from Aparri, which was the landing which concerned the North Luzon force, I decided to let them land.

They were feinting at Aparri. They had hit it with a reinforced brigade of about 3000 men, attempting to pull some of my forces up to that point and weaken the already weak defense in the Lingayen Gulf region.

Besides, I knew that the only way south from Aparri was down the Cayagan Valley. I had a battalion in the Belete Pass at the base of the valley, and dug in well enough to stop a fairly considerable force moving down that way. So I made no deployment of my main body of troops, so certain was I that when the Japs made their serious landings they would make them in the areas where I had the chief weight of my troops.

But the rat was in the house, and it was no comfort. I drove back to half-wrecked Stotsenburg that night of Dec. 12 to find that it had been re-bombed during the day. It was irritating as the devil to have my headquarters anchored at Stotsenburg instead of farther north. But I was tied down by my 31st Division, which was over on the Zambales coast. There was still a chance that the Japs would strike there, so I couldn't get too far away from it.

But on Dec. 13 I did compromise by moving my headquarters to the village of Bamban, about 10 miles northeast of Stotsenburg. It had a better road running near it, and I knew that in the near future I would be depending more on messengers and couriers than on the fragile public phone system.

(TOMORROW: The Japs hit our undertrained, undermanned and pathetically equipped forces, who had only their hearts—and the leadership of Wainwright—to sustain them.)

GOOD EXAMPLE

THE PROBLEM of too many automobiles and too few parking areas similarly afflicts Boston and New York.

The difference is that New York is prepared to do something more worthwhile than talk and worry.

And the president of Manhattan Borough is successfully campaigning for an even larger garage to relieve traffic congestion causing business losses estimated at more than a million dollars a day.

Meanwhile, Boston does nothing more effective than tagging five hundred or more parked cars daily—a procedure hardly calculated to encourage the city's popularity with strangers or designed to induce them to repeat their visits and patronage.

WHY CANNOT WE BUILD THE OFTEN DISCUSSED AND THOROUGHLY PRACTICAL GARAGE UNDER BOSTON COMMON?

This development would not harm that venerable park in any way.

On the contrary, it would provide much money for over-due landscaping and other improvements.

Boston business must survive.

We cannot afford to isolate ourselves from the rest of the State and nation.

So let's take a leaf from New York's book and promptly build the garage under the Common.

WAY TO FAME

SUFFICIENT books to fill the ordinary public library have been written about how to get to Hollywood.

Latest contributor to this abundant but still popular literature is Mr. Joseph Pincus, head of the 20th Century-Fox Talent Department, who says:

"There is no orthodox procedure for entering pictures. You could be on a desert island and a producer or director might chance to see you.

"On the other hand, you may be working right on a studio sound stage and never get the opportunity of appearing before the cameras.

"The most important thing is to bring yourself to the attention of the person who can help you.

"Don't sit around at home. Be seen. Get your face in newspapers and magazines. Act, study and WORK."

Young people with stage and screen ambitions who live in Boston and New England are uniquely fortunate.

If they have the proper talent and the right determination they will find in our exceptionally good schools and colleges all the knowledge and training they need for Broadway and Hollywood.

MENTALLY UNFIT

MORE THAN 2,300,000 men and women were unable to serve in America's armed forces because of mental or emotional disorders or inaptitudes.

This figure, recently announced in Washington, includes 1,825,000 men who were rejected in pre-induction physical examinations and 476,023 discharged from the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard.

Fortunately, the situation, from the 4Fs' viewpoint, is not half so bad as it seems at first reading.

Most of the 2,300,000 are able to work and earn a living, and not a few of them are well enough to strike for higher wages.

It would be interesting to learn how many of these Americans who were "mentally unfit" to fight, took the jobs which fighting men left and proved so sound in brain and brawn that they now have a permanent hold on the jobs.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Here are two separate experiences of American servicemen in the preliminary phase of their more abundant life in that brave new world of the future.

Westbrook Pegler

Number one is related by a man who signs himself A. M. Ellis, 14034897, T-Sergeant, Squadron S., 3704 AAF Base Unit, Keesler Field, Miss.

Several weeks ago this man wrote me a statement of his problem. In reply, I asked him for original documents or certified copies which have now been received. His story is this:

Last Jan. 5 he was ordered to the Rheem Manufacturing Co., Danville, Pa., as a machinist to relieve an acute labor shortage in the production of a type of shell which was urgently needed.

He was hired for 90 days as tool-room machinist and ordered to work at once but only on condition that he join the Machinists' Union which had a closed shop contract.

This, he writes, he refused to do because he was a soldier on orders from the War Department.

Army officers joined company officials in urging him to join, he says, but, being a soldier, he still refused. Incidentally, had he joined and had the union struck the plant, he would probably have had to strike, too, in violation of military orders in which case he might have been sent to prison.

THERE BEING no work, Ellis requested further orders and for a week lived in a local hotel at his own expense until he was ordered to the Kentucky Shell Co., Newport, Ky.

He worked there 90 days and then was ordered to Attebury, Ind., for transfer to the enlisted reserve.

Now he became a civilian and was sent back to the Kentucky Shell Co. in that status. He spent about $500 for civilian clothing and tools, but, after two weeks, the Cincinnati Ordnance District ordered him to Arlington, N. J., where he was told there was no work for a man of his particular skill.

Ellis then applied to the enlisted reserve headquarters, 50 Broadway, New York, for permission to seek a job as a free, independent civilian.

On July 5, Ellis writes, he was recalled to the Army. Sergt. Ellis also writes that at Danville he was a soldier under military orders, whereas a letter to him from the Rheem Manufacturing Co. states that he was on a 90-day furlough. I do not know whether a soldier on furlough but under orders is guilty of a military offense if he should strike the job to which the War Department assigns him. It seems to be a new legal problem.

NUMBER TWO is related in a letter signed "Marion L. Martin, Lt. Comdr., U. S. C. G. R.," accompanied by a copy of a letter from him to Albert Thomas, member of Congress.

Mr. Martin relates that he and two others, George H. Blewett and Leonard N. Harper, have operated the T. S. C. Motor Freight Lines with headquarters in Houston, Tex., starting in 1934 with 28 trucks and 95 employes and expanding until 1942 when their business employed 400 workers and operated 130 trucks with an annual business of $1,500,000. This was their private enterprise.

Harper enlisted in the Army in 1942, received the bronze star and rose to the rank of major, stationed, until recently at least, in India. Martin joined the Coast Guard Reserve, also in 1942, and recently went on leave, expecting to go inactive soon.

The letter to the Congressman related that in 1937 the A. F. of L. teamsters, bossed by Dan Tobin, tried to organize the employes of T.S.C., who nevertheless by vote joined an independent union. Jurisdictional arguments between Tobin's union and the independent have occurred almost annually but, "without exception, at the show-down, the independent union proved to represent by a large majority the eligible employes."

The law and the Labor Relations Board, of course, compelled the company to deal with the independent union which thus received a new contract last January.

★ ★ ★

THEREUPON, Martin's letter relates, a man claiming to be a representative of Tobin's union threatened to break this company, two of whose partners served in the war, unless these two service men agreed to force their employes to join Tobin's union.

This case is typical of unionism as fostered under the Roosevelt regime.

AND SO, My Fellow Countrymen, today I report to you that your sons and daughters have served you well and faithfully with the calm, deliberate, determined fighting spirit of the American soldier and sailor. THEY ARE HOMEWARD BOUND—TAKE CARE OF THEM.—GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 — That boy, Guy Madison, who did one brief role in "Since You Went Away" and then left movies for the Navy, walks right into a lead. He's over at RKO playing with Dorothy McGuire in "The Dream of Home" for Dore Schary. Very often you can tell that an actor is star material the moment he steps out on the screen. Guy seems to have that quality.

Dorothy McGuire

★ ★ ★

WHEN I WAS in Paris in 1932 I saw Yvonne Printemps in "Three Waltzes," the fascinating story of three generations of women. The first is an opera singer, the second a ballet dancer and the third a movie star. Printemps was once married to Sacha Guitry, and she was married at that time, or engaged to her leading man, I've forgotten, it was so long ago. But it isn't about this actress that I'm concerned - it's about our own Ginger Rogers, who is to do this really exciting drama for the Hakim boys.

★ ★ ★

THE GENE AUTRY case against Republic is being watched with great interest by the other companies. It comes up in court October 17, and it will probably reveal whether actors must return to the studios where their contracts expired during the war, or whether they are free to accept other offers. I understand M-G-M, if Gene gets his freedom from Republic, would very much like to have him—as who wouldn't?

★ ★ ★

THE RUMOR that Jimmy Stewart was to make a picture for Frank Capra was pretty well circulated in Hollywood and it seemed logical because Capra produced "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," which was always Jimmy's favorite. I telephoned the colonel to find out if it were true that he was going to go with Capra. "Frank is out of town," said Jimmy, "and I haven't talked with him. I have made no plans but I want to make a picture soon; that is by the first of the year and I am going to listen to any story that hasn't a war angle. I think people have had enough of war."

★ ★ ★

HERE'S SOME NEWS: Alexander Korda has brought a completed picture back from England for M-G-M. Those who have had an advance peep at it are raving over Deborah Kerr, his new star. She and Robert Donat, who is extremely popular in this country, do a magnificent job

YOU COULD HAVE knocked me off my feet when I went out to Republic to visit Frank Borzage on the "Concerto" set. I hadn't been out to the studio in the valley for a long time, principally because I didn't have enough gas to travel that far. For a moment I thought I was at M-G-M, Warners or 20th by mistake because Republic now is a major studio and it's huge, with all new sets and stages. Frank had 90 musicians working on his picture. I saw his discovery, Catherine McLeod. But I am telling you more about her later. I met Borden Chase, who wrote "Concerto." He looks so much like Harold Lloyd he could double for Harold and his personal story is fascinating. Only a few years ago he was a sandhog, working in the New York tubes. His wife was so sure of his writing ability she made him quit all other work. She went to work herself to support them, and she certainly is being rewarded by his great success today.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Edna Best, who was once married to Herbert Marshall and is now Mrs. Nat Wolfe, will be a grandmother in a few months. Her 20-year-old son, in the RAF, is expecting to become a father; Nina Foch is said to be planning to marry Dick Dickerson, recently discharged naval lieutenant, very soon; Bill Bendix has gifted his neighbor, Sonny Tufts, with a set of snare drums. What's Bill trying to do—drive himself crazy? Remember Lanny Ross, who was so popular on the radio? Just received a letter from him from Yokohama, where he's with the Eighth Army. He writes that he organized the first GI theater out there; Adrian Scott sails for England in January to look over the set-up for RKO and to see about filming "So Well Remembered" in London. Yes, RKO owns this and not Arthur Rank; Harry James was heart-broken when he couldn't get through "Kitten on the Keys" in time to catch a plane to the last game of the World Series. I know a few more who felt the same way.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 - President Truman, as you have heard, does some surprising things, particularly where old friends are concerned. If a pal of long standing invites him somewhere, the chances are the President will show up.

Pres. Truman

Now there is one place the President of the United States never goes and that is the Supreme Court. There is no actual law barring him, but plenty of tradition.

The founding fathers established the tradition. They made it clear that the Judiciary should be kept separate and distinct from the Executive. The President, for all his powers, was to keep his hands off the courts.

Consequently no President — so far as my researches could determine—had ever visited the highest tribunal, not even to borrow a black robe to make blackout curtains. Never having had a President visit them, the Supreme Court justices had never bothered to lay down any rules for receiving one.

The upshot was that the justices were left floundering in their robes when Mr. Truman suddenly appeared for the investiture of former Sen. Harold H. Burton of Ohio.

BUT, if the justices were caught off guard, it wasn't half what it did to the Supreme Court clerk. Here's what happened:

Senator Burton thought it would be nice if his old friend Harry Truman attended the swearing in, but hardly expected him to accept. To his surprise, the President did.

Burton's secretary, Earl E. Hart, went over to the Supreme Court to make the final arrangements. As he was leaving, he said to the Supreme Court clerk:

"By the way, the President will be here, too!"

The usually-imperturbable chief clerk let loose a scream: "The President! He can't come here!"

"Why not?" asked Mr. Hart. "Because he can't!" shouted the clerk. "We just don't do it!"

Afraid the clerk might blow a gasket, Mr. Hart tried to be soothing but it had no effect. Finally he got exasperated and snapped:

"I don't care what you do or what you don't do - the President will be here! What do you have to say about it!"

But it seemed the clerk was beyond further words.

★ ★ ★

THE JUSTICES did not scream when Mr. Truman appeared but they took no official cognizance of his presence. The head man sat quietly through the ceremonies.

However, the justices whispered among themselves during the swearing-in and agreed upon a compromise. As the President started to leave the chamber they all rose.

AS PER PROMISE—or threat—of yesterday I am giving more questions and answers from that instructive volume "Our American Government." If that little boy in the rear will stop pinching that little girl the class will proceed:

Question: Can members of Congress be impeached?

Answer: No; but each House can, with concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member. Members are subject to prosecution for treason, felony, or breach of the peace, the same as private citizens.

Q. What is the largest number of bills ever introduced in a single Congress?

A. In the Sixty-First Congress (1909-11) there was a total of 44,363 measures introduced in both Houses.

Q. What is the mace and what is its significance?

A. The mace is the only visible symbol of government authority in the United States. It is an institution borrowed from the British Parliament, where it has become a traditional symbol of parliamentary authority. Its origin goes back to the "fasces" of Republican Rome - the bundle of rods and an ax which were carried by the lictors who attended each Roman magistrate as he held court and administered justice. From this very practical instrument (the rods for administering whippings and the ax for beheading) the "fasces" developed and evolved into a symbol, known as the mace.

(ED. NOTE: It also produced the name Fascism. But Mussolini didn't develop into a mace.)

★ ★ ★

A group of Congressmen were listening to the World Series over the radio when Rep. John E. Rankin came in. This was surprising because Mr. Rankin cares as much about baseball as he does for Communists.

"How is Mississippi doing?" he asked.

It developed he was asking about Claude Passeau, Cub pitcher, who comes from Mississippi. The game continued to be exciting, but when Passeau retired after the sixth inning with an injured hand, Rankin got up to go.

"Too bad Mississippi lost out," he commented.

Boston After Dark

THE NEW SHOW AT THE Oval Room of the Copley-Plaza is in the good taste of its predecessor and features Nan Wynne, the dainty young singer with a true little voice which she places wonderfully . . . The girls are as lovely in this show, the second Copacabana Revue, as they were in the first Copacabana Revue . . . It is no swami trick to make such a pronouncement . . . Because these girls are the same . . . Monte Proser is given credit for presenting the show, and Wally (The Lone) Wanger staged it.

★ ★ ★

THE HIT-TUNE "ATCHISON, Topeka and Santa Fe" (which has not yet qualified as an earbender in spite of its constant plugging on the air and on the land and every place but under the sea) is sung neatly by Miss Wynne . . . She performed the number beautifully at the premiere with a slight bow and smile toward the outer ringside at the right of the room . . . The publisher of the song, Jack Robbins, a Boston boy who went to New York via Worcester to become the outstanding Horatio Alger hero of Tin Pan Alley's publishing world, was sitting there.

★ ★ ★

"HUMPH!" mused Mr. Robbins, who is the chief of Feist's, Miller's and the Robbins Music Corp. (The Big 3 in Music) . . . "In two months and coincident with the release of the picture 'The Harvey Girls' where it is introduced - the song will be dead . . ." But Mr. Robbins isn't complaining, although the tune has been the medium of bad feeling in both the movie and the song-publishing industries . . . Johnny Mercer, who wrote the lyrics of the song, beat the gun on "Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe" . . . And as accompince in stealing a march on his fellow entertainers was the unoffending (generally) Bing Crosby.

★ ★ ★

GOOD JUDGE of a song that he has always been, Der Bingle listened to the suggestion of Mr. Mercer that he make a recording of "Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe" before the rank and file of vocalists in America were aware that there was such a tune . . . Bing and Johnny got together and Bing's record followed . . . (200,000 copies) . . . It is interesting to note that Mr. Crosby, in his anxiety to be the first to put the tune on wax, ignored the disc-making company (Decca) in which he owns a strong minority of all the stock . . . The Crosby waxing was made by Capital, which, coincidentally enough, happens to have a large stockholder in the person of the aforementioned song-writing Johnny Mercer

★ ★ ★

EL BINGO CROSBY - by the way—is pouting against Decca, which he helped found and catapult into the big money-making class by his favoritism in recording most Crosby songs with that company . . . Bing is a shrewd hand in looking after his own interests . . . Because of the petty and inexpensive nature of his vices - Bing needing not much more for happiness than painted shirts, flowered cravats, old hats, old pipes, a lot of golf and an occasional sawbuck to wager on the ponies, including his own Mr. Crosby has merged his modesty of living, with shrewdness into a huge fortune

His spectacular voice, of course, has helped in writing the success story "From Plus Fours to Plus-Four Millions."

★ ★ ★

THE BASIS OF BING'S pout against the disc-manufacturers which he helped nurture is that Perry Como, now a threat to Bing, and the runner-up, Frank Sinatra, are making platters for a Victor company rejuvenated recently by the acquisition of a bustling showman named Eli Oxerstein . . . Perry Como's contract calls for Victor to make, release and sell at least a million records every time the Como lungs is exercised in front of a master record

★ ★ ★

IN THE trade, an artist's financial success can only be as great as the output of the product . . . When, therefore, a singer like Crosby is limited to 500,000 records as a general practice, it can be restraining as all get out

Breath That's Sweet

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

ISN'T IT ALWAYS the way? Ordinarily you'd never run into Aunt Minnie who frowns on cocktails and smoking . . . whose mid-Victorian prudishness is dead set against these uninhibited indulgences of the modern emancipated girl. But this time when you did have "just one" and your breath wreaked of nicotine she greeted and kissed you . . . and then quivered her nostrils in eyeing distrust.

Whether you should or shouldn't indulge is beyond our province . . . but if you do here is a breath-sweetener as fresh and alive and as fascinating as the ageless redwoods from whence it comes. It is simply wonderful to give you a sweet, clean mouth . . . and rid your breath of objectionable odors from smoking or imbibing . . . or even from onion smell if you like your thick and juicy steak smothered in those delectable edibles.

DISAPPEAR LIKE MAGIC

If you're a fastidious person who values her "social security" . . . this little liquid resultant from the evergreen, ever-vigorous redwood trees is a personality stock booster. Made from the essence of the young buds of the redwood trees . . . the chlorophyll has been extracted and compounded into a delightful tongue antiseptic.

Whether you are off to class . . . or off to work . . . or high-bound for an all-important date . . . if you speak to and with people . . . you'll want a clean, sweet mouth. It is the trademark of a well-groomed woman whose charm and well being are never threatened by an unpleasing breath. Odors due to foods, tobacco and liquors seem to disappear as if by magic.

HELPFUL FOR SINGERS

Maybe it "ain't" nice to remind you that possibly you have an ash-tray breath . . . but we don't mean to be critical . . . just helpful. So let this little bottle of emerald green liquid . . . that you can carry with you wherever you go and whisk out for immediate action as the need arises . . . come to your defense and dispell the tell-tale evidence.

Speakers and singers have found this liquid mist invaluable for throat huskiness. We know several radio performers who wouldn't dream of giving out with the vocal chords before the mike . . . before first placing a drop of this liquid magic on their tongue.

For the name of this breath charmer, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE VIVACIOUS gal laughs and opens her mouth wide . . . never fearing any serious consequences . . . especially if she has touched her tongue with a magical antiseptic that immediately dissipates the tell-tale evidence of over indulgence . . . in dining, smoking or imbibing. A clean, sweet breath is as much a charm asset as a lovely face. Bombshell Betty Hutton poses.

They Sneak Out for Dates

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm in love with a girl of 18 and I'm 21 and just discharged from the service. We went to the same school, and I have been in love with her for a long time. We have dated several times when I've been home on furlough, but always had to do it on the sly, as our parents don't approve of our seeing each other. They don't think we've suited to one another.

She will start to college in a couple of weeks and I've heard she is dating another boy who attends the same university. What shall I do? Break off with her, or try to make her forget the other boy, who is a year or so older than I am?

VETERAN.

There's always a question in my mind whether these parental taboos work out the way they're intended. Their disapproval seems to make you more attractive to one another than you really are. The unfortunate thing is that you two have been sneaking off to see each other. You may get an extra thrill from sneaking, but that sort of thing isn't good for one's character.

Why not talk to your mother about it, and get her to agree to your seeing the girl occasionally, and your girl friend might do the same with her mother. Meanwhile, don't think this is going to be the great love affair of your life. See something of other girls too, and your mother may relent and not object to your seeing this one.

Serve Sweet Potatoes; They're Rich in Vitamins

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

ONE SUGGESTION we make frequently is that homemakers take advantage of plentiful foods and use them as often and in as many ways as possible. Today we mention sweet potatoes as one of those foods because at the present time they are abundant and generally reasonable in price.

Sweet potatoes must be cured to keep long in storage, and since many growers do not have adequate facilities for curing and storing, the potatoes are sent to market as rapidly as they are harvested. It is these uncured freshly harvested sweet potatoes which we shall see so much of all this month.

These potatoes are of excellent quality for using right now, and if they are to be mashed or finished in special ways for vegetable dishes or desserts, cook them in their skins to save the vitamins and minerals. If the potatoes are to be pared raw, make the parings thin. Cook the potatoes as soon as possible and avoid leaving them in water.

SWEET POTATO PIE

2 tbsp. fat, melted
½ tsp. salt
½ cup corn syrup or sugar syrup
⅓ cup orange juice
1 tsp. grated orange rind
2 cups mashed sweet potatoes
1 or 2 eggs, separated
½ cup milk

Add fat, salt, syrup, orange juice and grated rind to the hot mashed sweet potatoes. Add beaten egg yolks and milk. Beat well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour this mixture into a 10-inch baked pie shell and bake in a moderate oven 30 to 40 minutes.

SWEET POTATO PUFF

5 or 6 medium-sized sweet potatoes
2 eggs
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsp. melted fat
2 tbsp. hot milk

Boil the sweet potatoes. When they are tender, remove the skins and any discolored portions, and press the sweet potatoes through a ricer. There should be about 1 quart of pulp. Beat the yolks and whites of eggs separately. To the sweet potato add the yolks, fat, milk, and salt, beat well, and fold in the well-beaten whites. Pile the mixture lightly into a greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 45 minutes, or until light and fluffy and brown on top.

SWEET POTATO AND APPLE SCALLOP

3 medium-sized sweet potatoes
3 medium-sized apples
¼ tsp. salt
1 or 2 tbsp. sugar
2 tbsp. fat
¼ cup water

Boil the sweet potatoes until they are partly tender. Take off the skins. Slice the sweet potatoes and the raw apples in layers in a greased baking pan. Sprinkle with a bit of salt and a bit of suger and add a dot or two of fat to each layer. Pour in the water. Bake covered in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) for 30 to 40 minutes, or until the apples are tender. If desired, uncover the dish the last 15 minutes of cooking and top with corn flakes or bread crumbs combined with a little fat.

BAKED SWEET POTATOES

Wash and dry sweet potatoes of uniform size. Bake in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) 40 to 60 minutes or until tender. If you want the skin to be soft, rub a little fat on the sweet potato before baking. Cut crisscross gashes in the skin of the baked sweet potatoes on one side, then pinch the potatoes so that some of the soft inside pops through the opening. Drop in meat drippings, bits of crisp cooked salt pork or table fat.

Save fuel by baking sweet potatoes when you oven-cook other food. If a moderate oven is called for, allow a little extra time for the sweet potatoes to bake.

THE MINARET jacket of this charming two-piece suit from Hattie Carnegie's new collection reflects the oriental richness of the new season. Of Persian blue-wool . . . the suit clings to the body and reaches high around the throat in an interestingly shaped line repeated at the waistline and at the top of the narrow cuffed sleeves. The skirt is distinctly full and cut on circular lines. The model wears purple accessories and gold oriental head jewelry, also designed by Carnegie . . . R. M.

The Correct Thing

FIRST DATE?—The high school or college youth who is liked by girl's parents, and who makes a good impression on those with whom he comes in contact, gives thought to his clothes. Cloth Coat Is Wise Choice

By BETTINA BEDWELL

IT IS AN almost universal American dream to have a fur coat, and yet there are some of us who would be a lot better looking if we would just forget this dream and concentrate on having a really good cloth coat.

Unless a fur coat is good-looking, becoming and solidly practical, which means not ratty or shoddy or badly made, you will be wise to get a cloth coat. Save money until you can buy the right kind of coat in fur. Until then wear a cloth coat, and you can wear it promptly if you pick a good one, for such a coat is just as distinguished, often more so.

This year, particularly, a good cloth coat is a five-star fashion, and there are many around. The lines of such coats are of first importance. They must be good lines, on you. Good material is also of greatest importance, and so is nice, not gaudy, color.

Major General Becomes Bishop

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (INS)—The Most Rev. Richard Arnold, an Army chaplain for 32 years and chief of chaplains since 1937, became today the first major general of the Army to be consecrated as a bishop in the Roman Catholic church.

At a colorful ceremony in St Patrick's Cathedral, attended by hundreds of high-ranking Catholic dignitaries, Archbishop Francis J. Spellman consecrated Msgr Arnold as titular bishop of Phocea and military delegate of the Catholic Ordinariate.

The bishopric of Phocea is honorary, since that ancient Greek see ceased to exist centuries ago. The military ordinariate comprises all Catholics, chaplains and laity in the active military service of the Army and Navy all over the world and all civilians within military areas of American armed forces.

Bradley's Estranged Wife Cut Off in Millionaire's Will

Robert S. Bradley, multimillionaire industrialist of Beverly, who reportedly settled $1,500,000 on his third wife out of court to end her separate support suit in 1932, made no provision for her in his will, filed for probate today in Salem court.

Bradley, who died last Dec. 7 at the age of 90, stated in the will he intentionally made no provision for his wife, Florence S. Bradley, of Old Bennington, Vt., because "she has been sufficiently provided for."

The will bequests of $20,000 to various employes and directs that the entire residue be held in trust for his two daughters and three granddaughters.

The daughters are Rep. Leslie B. Cutler and Mrs. Rosamond B. Rheault, both of Needham.

The granddaughters are Mrs. Leslie N. Sherman, Mrs. Evelyn C. Converse and Mrs. Lavinia S. Chase, all of Brookline.

No estimate of the value of the estate was given.

Bradley and Mrs. Bradley were married in New York, each for the third time, in 1927. At the time he was 72 and she was 52 and she was 52.

Disagreement over politics was reportedly the basic cause of their marital differences when she sued for separate support in October, 1932.

Bradley, an ardent supporter of President Roosevelt, objected strongly to his wife's activities in behalf of Hoover.

Mrs. Bradley left the sumptuous estate at Pride's Crossing to take up living quarters in the Ritz-Carlton, receivin $1000 a week temporary alimony pending hearing of her suit for separate support.

Finally, in December, 1932, the couple reached an agreement on a lump sum to be paid Mrs. Bradley, reportedly $1,500,000.

Tar's Kiss on Bus 'Real Thing' to Gal

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—A Bridgeport, O., girl wrote the editor of the Hagerstown Herald today asking him to help find the sailor who kissed her on a bus.

"I don't go around kissing people just for a habit," wrote the young woman, "but this looks like the real thing."

She said the sailor kissed her and left the bus at Hagerstown while she continued to Wheeling, W. Va., from Washington.

"Please, Mr. Editor, won't you put something in the paper that will help me find him?" she asked.

Surplus Sale Deals Urged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Senators will ask Sec. Byrnes this week to put some Yankee horse-trading policies into effect in the disposal of American war surpluses abroad.

Chairman Mead (D.) of New York said the Senate war investigating committee specifically wants:

Certain "intangible" rights for this government—such as oil concessions, military bases and airplane landing fields—in return for the trucks, jeeps, supplies and equipment other nations want.

An over-all co-ordination of economic and diplomatic agreements with foreign nations.

"If we agree to lend the British money," Mead said, "we ought to stipulate that the loan won't go through unless they give us some oil concessions and some bases that we need.

"We've got somewhere between $25,000,000,000 and $75,000,000,000 worth of property scattered all over the world. We ought to get our money back in intangible rights, if nothing else, when we sell it."

Columbus High Dedication Set

With Archbishop Cushing officiating, the new Christopher Columbus Catholic High School will be formally opened tomorrow in Boston's North End.

Ceremonies open with the archbishop celebrating a solemn high mass at St. Leonard's Church at 10 a. m., with blessing of the school to follow immediately.

Classes began Sept. 18 under direction of Rev. Timothy F. O'Leary as headmaster. The school has only a freshman group, with a class to be added each year until a four-year high school has been established.

The first year group includes 148 boys and 75 girls from all sections of Greater Boston.

A modern cafeteria for hot meals and light lunches at noon is provided.

Pupils from the four parishes of the North End receive tuition free, although there is a $10 yearly rental fee for books. Pupils from other districts pay $30 yearly and the book fee as well.

Contributions to the school may be sent to Headmaster Fr. O'Leary at 20A Tileston st., North End.

Greater Boston's newest Service Star Club—the 11th organized under auspices of the Boston School Committee—today boasted a membership of several hundred Roslindale women.

The members, all relatives of men in the armed services from the area, held an organization meeting at Roslindale High School. The club will serve as a medium of mutual companionship until their kin return from battle areas.

A revue by the Y. W. C. A.'s "Victory Troupers," one of New England's top flight camp show units, featured the opening night's entertainment at Roslindale. Under direction of Miss Louie Mudgett, the troupe of 16 amateurs offered skits, musical and dancing numbers.

Speakers included Michael J. Ward, chairman, Patrick J. Foley, Joseph C. White, Daniel McDevitt and Clement A. Norton, members of the Boston School Committee, and Dr. Dennis C. Haley, assistant superintendent in charge of the extended use of the Boston Public Schols.

College Clubs Active

THE BEGINNING of fall brings busy schedules for a number of college clubs. The October meeting of the Simmons Club of Boston will take place the 17th at 40 Commonwealth ave., with Mrs. Francis Archibald, president, as hostess. Assisting her will be the membership committee, which includes Margaret Tatro, Priscilla Ripley, and Mary Logan Canavan. The speakers will include several Simmons alumnae.

Dr. Wilbur K. Jordan, president of Radcliffe College, was the speaker at the first Autumn meeting of the Radcliffe Club of Rhode Island, which was held last evening at the Mary C. Wheeler School. Radcliffe alumnae and their husbands were greeted by Mrs. John H. Ritter. Miss Mabel Van Norman, headmistress of the Wheeler School and a Radcliffe alumna, gave a dinner for Dr. Jordan before the meeting.

Mrs. Carmichael

Pres. Leonard Carmichael of Tufts College and Mrs. Carmichael were hosts at a reception last night in Packard Hall in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Bruce W. Brotherston of Holliston, following Dr Brotherston's talk at Goddard Chapel. Fletcher professor emeritus of philosophy at Tufts, Dr Brotherston gave the annual Russell lecture.

Prof. Alfred S. Cole had charge of arrangements for the reception

United Nations Urged To Control Opium

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 11 (AP)—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union today petitioned the United Nations organization to take over the League of Nations machinery for opium control.

The petition said the San Francisco Charter "now leaves the world open to traffic and underground marketing of the scourging drug."

Remote Control

DAYTON, O., Oct. 11 (AP)—The Army tomorrow will give the nation a peep at the possible "push-button war" of the future by making its first publicly-disclosed inter-city flight of a radio-controlled airplane.

The crewless ship will lift from Lockbourne Army air base south of Columbus, O., fly to Wright field here and land, with every move controlled by radio operators aboard a "mother" plane.

IN 1870

Haffenreffer & Co., Inc., was founded. One year later the first formal league of professional ball players also made its initial bow, with the "Bostons" representing New England. In those early days games were played before a handful of spectators on open grounds near upper Huntington Avenue. An attendance of more than one thousand was considered to be unusually large.

IN 1945

baseball has developed to become America's national pastime. Forty thousand or more fans at a game is not uncommon, and games may be viewed in comfort in modern stadia conveniently located in the heart of the country's largest cities. Public interest in the series to determine the World's Championship is almost universal. Haffenreffer & Co., Inc., brewers of PICKWICK ALE, have over the years, shown a development comparable to that of baseball, to become one of America's great breweries.

Monday Deadline For Christmas Boxes to Buddies

Only four days remain in which to enroll in the Christmas Gifts for Buddies Overseas Campaign, sponsored by the Boston American, Record and Sunday Advertiser for the fourth year to bring holiday joy to lonely servicemen overseas.

The deadline for mailing such Christmas gifts is midnight next Monday, which leaves only scant time for those who wish to do their part in making Christmas a happy one for some boy far from home.

If you fill out and mail immediately the coupon accompanying this article, you will receive by return mail a label bearing the name of an overseas chaplain who will be personally responsible for distribution of your gift package to some service man or woman who might otherwise be forgotten.

Here is how one of our readers feels:

"Because I'm expecting my own son home this Christmas, the first one in four and a half years, I'm very grateful. A month ago he wrote from Okinawa, saying he was awaiting transportation.

"God has been good, and I am looking for him soon. I hope everyone still out there gets a Christmas box, and I want to send one to some boy who will not be home on that day.

"A nephew of ours was killed in Germany last Feb. 1, and never received his Christmas gifts. They were returned just a few weeks ago, along with his V-mail. For the sake of a homesick boy of 19 who never received these gifts, I want to make some other boy happy."

Marines Epic On Twin Bills

"Pride of the Marines," Warner Brothers' stirring story of Al Schmid, the one-man marine army, starring John Garfield, tops the Paramount and Fenway bill opening today.

The other film is "Scotland Yard Investigator," an exciting account of the theft of the world's most famous painting, starring C. Aubrey Smith and Erich von Stroheim.

"Pride of the Marines" is a true-to-life tale of that generation of Americans who came of age on Dec. 7, 1941. It tells of Sgt. Al Schmid, who made history with his fabulous one-man stand against the Japs—with a machine gun that grew white-hot in his hands.

'Paris Underground' War Thrills on Two Screens

A warmly human portrait of two women blithely defying the German Gestapo, is shown in "Paris Underground," now at the Old South and Tremont.

Under the skillful direction of Gregory Ratoff, Constance Bennett and Gracie Fields create the roles of the daring, vivacious Kitty de Mornay and her practical but humorous British friend, Emmyline Quayle.

Even as the Germans enter Paris, the two women flee the city. A few miles away they are forced back by German sentries. On their return trip they meet a young British flyer and impulsively decide to smuggle him across the border to unoccupied France.

That is the beginning. Thumbing their noses at the aggressors, the two women plot the escape of over 300 British flyers right from under the Teuton monocle.

Brilliant and intriguing newcomer to the American screen, George Rigaud plays the husband of the tempestuous Kitty. Tall, lanky and "outdoorsey," he is a very talented Latin-American who gives vitality and verve to the role of Andre de Mornay.

Kurt Kreuger, tall, blond and broad-shouldered, gives individuality and a certain arrogant charm to the Gestapo Captain

Is Europe Breeding Another World War?

By AUSTEN LAKE

Austen Lake

IT'S A SORRY INDICTMENT on mankind! But there has seldom been a moment of complete world peace in human history; rarely a time when two or more nations were not busy chewing each other to unsightly hulks and collaborating toward mutual misery. Since 1800 mankind has fought 132 major wars.

So today you hear professional soldiers talk of the "next world war," as though it is inevitable! They don't say how, or where or when, or for what reason! But they base their conviction on human folly, that immutable cause of all wars, which will again bear its evil fruit—the private ambitions, personal prejudices, official animosities and territorial greeds of political chiefs who place individual vanity and national pride above the common good.

Russia begins to incubate the same germ which has plunged Europe into periodic chaos through the centuries—the microbe of arrogant unwillingness to make honest concessions and refusal to accept the hand of tolerance. The same virus which consumed Germany now seems to have infected Russia—world domination!

"What Foolishness War Is"

WHAT ELSE? IS IT SECURITY? No one threatens Russian safety! Is it territory? Russia possesses one-fourth of the global lands! Is it world markets? Russia has equal access to the world marts! If not these, then what? Russia must want political monopoly through which to control global affairs—the age-old urge of men and nations to dominate their neighbors!

Wars are never created by peoples. The American farmer does not hate the Russian peasant. The U. S. soldier had a difficult time whipping up animosities toward the German soldier before D-Day, only feeling toward him a dull resentment as the agency which blocked his road back home. It was not until the American recognized his German adversary as a vicious, bestial slaughterer that he really learned to hate.

I remember the 9th Division Artillery lieutenant who was directing the fire of a battery of 105s beyond Vire, Normandy—high angled, ear-shattering salvos that arched miles over the horizon. And he said, "Silly isn't it? Here we squat and shoot guys we can't see and don't know. What a damn foolishness war is. We are killing men to whom we haven't been properly introduced."

I used to visit the Invalides in Paris, a museum of war weapons through the ages. There were gleaming pikes, halberds, battle-axes and tools for stabbing the body and splitting the skull. And double-edged swords and needle bayonets for cleaving human flesh. They were relics of forgotten soldiery from wars whose causes are no longer remembered.

The graves of the century-old warriors have long since been flattened by rain and wind. The legends on their headstones are erased by erosion. And nobody except a few antiquarians cares who these ancient soldiers were or knows what they died for. They are the vast anonymity of world soldiery who fought, bled and died for reasons they seldom understood. But their famous leaders who made the wars lie enshrined in marble and bronze.

Not many months ago I stood in a young apple orchard in Lorraine, France. The seedling trees were virginal and slender, their branches crowned with white blossoms like little girls in Communion dress. Between their orderly rows lay ranks of wooden crosses surmounted with rusty French helmets and legends scarcely discernable—soldiers of 1940 who had also returned to earth's anonymity, their bones feeding the roots of the saplings with nitrates to make the fruit more sweet. They did not choose to be there. They were put there by political pomposities of Europe's leaders.

The Familiar Pattern Of Past History

IT'S THE OLD, MEDIEVAL FORMULA for wars founded on a system of greed and grab. So now Stalin and Molotov demand increased "spheres of influence," equal authority in Japan, a territorial gift in North Africa, island bases in the Mediterranean sea, free use of the Dardanelles, full control of the Balkans and Eastern Europe. They even insist on equal custody of the atomic bomb!

Suppose America yields everything! Would that content Stalin and insure permanent peace? No! not according to the familiar pattern of past history where aggressor nations, swollen with power, mistake concessions for weakness and use them as prelude for more demands!

It's the primary formula of Europe and Asia through the ages, since Kubla Khan, Xerxes, Alexander, the Caesars, Attila, Napoleon, Clive, Frederick der Gross, Bismark, Wilhelm Hohenzollern and Hitler. And always the warrior-statesmen with vanity, greeds and inflated egos made wars and called on idealistic youth to fight them. And always these martial leaders survived to preach the time-staled pap of centuries over the graves of youth, "Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori." Sweeter and better it is to live above green growing grass. Ask the youth of any land!

We Americans are refugees from Europe or Asia. We, or our forefathers, came here to escape the 70-and-7 distempers of the old world. The Negro is the only exception! All others came to elude the diseases of poverty, persecution, martial mischiefs and oppression.

Yet twice in our generation the distempers from which we fled have pursued us old-time refugees over the ocean and forced us to send our youth abroad lest we be consumed by the same tyranny we sought to escape. But, as a nation, we have short memories. We are prone to tumble back in the same traps, as we did after the first World War when we let Europe's Dead End Kids run wild till they grew up to vicious, gun-toting adults who pillaged the world community again.

So we formed another posse, sallied forth at gun point, shot 'em and got shot!. Let's keep our posse ready and well armed this time. The Dead End kids don't attack a tough muscular neighbor. They watch for easy pickings! Let's keep our national muscles hard.

Malden-Melrose Duel Tops Holiday Grid Card

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Malden High School's nominee for the state football championship will sail into the Melrose Athletic Field tomorrow afternoon with all the confidence of Columbus in the outstanding grid game in the schoolboy season—and there'll be an overflow crowd storming the inadequate stands in appreciation of the importance of the contest.

It could very well happen that the tilt will be a one-sided affair—with the balance tipping either way.

Both clubs have explosive qualities. Malden has a slightly more creditable record in spite of the fact that the Golden Tornado has dropped one decision in four starts against Melrose's three straight. Malden (after losing to Nashua) bopped Montreal, a pop-over, slammed Waltham and then prepped against Haverhill. Melrose edged Gloucester, slugged Haverhill and then bamboozled an inferior Newton outfit.

Malden will be strengthened by the return of John Gustanian to the fullback berth. With Gustanian in there, the Tornado will have only two newcomers who haven't stacked up against Melrose gridiron trickery—Ends Pete Trabucco and Jim Devaney, Tackles John Minahan, 245 pounds, and Frank Driscoll; guards Andy McDonald and Bill Hurton, center Dick Verrengia, and backs Frank Morelli, Carroll Lowenstein, Mike DeVincent and John Carroll shattered the Red Raiders' bubble last fall.

They could do it again—and probably will!

Coach Dave Gavin, in his usual pessimistic manner, looks for his first setback of the season. He has only two nifty linemen in Ralph Loveys and Alden Murphy and swell ball carriers in Dick Harlow, Bert Rathburn, Tom Emerson and Pete Sheridan.

In the annual holiday feature, Somerville will be hopping to Medford again and possibly that Medford "jinx" that was shattered last fall by Coach Tom Lynch may start again.

There'll be plenty of undefeated records at stake. Belmont and Framingham, in a morning tussle, will be risking twin marks of three victories; little Braintree will attempt a giant killing against Quincy and Boston College High will play its final tilt outside the Hub ranks at Portland, Me., against Cheverus.

Marblehead Asks Morey to Stay

At a meeting this week the Marblehead school committee asked Dave Morey, coach of football, basketball and baseball for the past two seasons, to reconsider his resignation.

Interference had prompted Coach Morey to offer to step down at the close of the school next June.

Morey, in coaching ranks for 25 years, intends to step back onto college gridirons. He moved to Marblehead from Martha's Vineyard, where he had a ground instructor's rating in aviation. He had previously coached at Bates, Alabama Polytechnical School and he was an assistant under Major Frank Cavanaugh at Fordham.

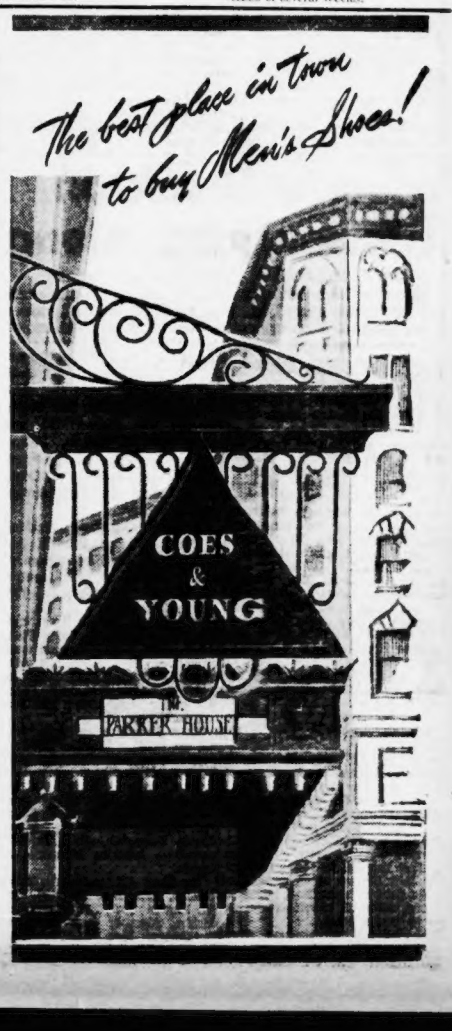
Nation's Bowlers Shoot at New Mark

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., Oct. 11 (AP)—The nation's bowlers had a 762 score to beat to take first place for the season's high for three games.

The American Bowling Congress said the 762 posted by August Stempihar in the Sheboygan Classic League was tops for the season. He shot scores of 279, 248 and 235.

EX-TIGER STAR DEAD

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP)—John H. Brooks, 73, head of the brokerage firm of J. H. Brooks and Co. and one-time Princeton University football and baseball star, died last night at Harkness Pavilion, New York, after an illness of several weeks.



BC and NYU Grid Clash, Double-Header at Rock

By JACK CONWAY

BOSTON COLLEGE'S football team, which fared so badly against Brown, hopes for a better fate when it clashes with New York University at Fenway Park, tomorrow . . . The Eagles lack top material, but they may be relied upon to give the visitors sturdy opposition.

It will be at least two years before Boston College has an eleven which will compare favorably with some of the great teams that have represented it in the past . . . Without the aid of students under a Navy program, such as they have at Holy Cross, Notre Dame and Dartmouth, Boston College has still managed to field football teams . . . There was one period during the war when the Eagles only had 400 enrolled students and yet they maintained their football front.

John Curley

Graduate Manager John Curley is entitled to much credit for keeping Boston College active in sports under the most adverse conditions . . . This same fine athletic management and college spirit will enable the Eagles to soar to new heights once things return to normal.

Boston College has reason to be proud of the fine records made by its graduates and students in the war . . . They served with distinction on every battle front, while many of their number made the supreme sacrifice.

The public will be patient until such time as Boston College is able to muster its full football strength again. . . . Meanwhile the Eagles will carry on as best they can against New York University and other gridiron rivals. . . . Boston College will also launch a basketball team this year.

Twin Racing Bill

ROCKINGHAM Park will stage a double-header for racing fans tomorrow. . . . There will be six races in the morning with the post time for the first race 10 a. m., while there will be eight races in the afternoon with a post time of 1:15 p. m. . . . With fair weather, it is expected that 30,000 persons will witness the races.

There are 1200 horses at Rockingham and this will enable Racing Secretary John Turner to put on a banner holiday attraction. . . . Special efforts have been made to get the better horses on the grounds to enter for the twin bill. . . . There are many new horses from the Midwest and Canada at Rockingham, and they have helped to give variety to the racing programs at the Salem, N. H. track.

Harvard vs. Rochester

DICK HARLOW has found the Harvard situation almost as bad as the one at Boston College. Harlow has been patiently trying to rebuild his football fences, but it is unlikely he will make much progress this season.

Harlow will give another showing of his 1945 team at the Stadium on Saturday when the Crimson will clash with Rochester. By next fall Harlow will have better material, but it will still be at least two years before football begins to roll on high at Cambridge.

Powerful Brockton Is Bouncing Along

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Brockton High School's bouncing along on the crest of an undefeated record in three straight football games and it's doubtful if an opponent (with the possible exception of Malden) will stop the drive of this aggressive Shoe City outfit.

And by the time Brockton moves into the Malden game, the Golden Tornado might very well be battered and bruised from a more rugged slate. They know, down Brockton way, that they have one of the slickest elevens in the history of the school. The team may be lacking in individual stars (such as in the days of Paddy Creedon, Lou Montgomery, etc.) but it has balance—with a capital B.

Of course, there are seven veterans back in starting positions and that helps some. Then, too, the bunch players are putting a lot of stock in the fact that the last time Brockton had a championship club was with a (Frank) Saba in the backfield. Now, there's another Saba back, Phil, cousin of the assistant coach. And he's won his position through his drive in a backfield that has everything.

Saba, at 175 pounds, is a bazooka back who spends his time picking up a few yards at a time. His forte opens the gates for deception with scat-back Dom "Muzz" Bertocci, 130-pound southpaw and a passer, Capt. Mario DiMarzo, 175-pound sharpshooter, and Bob Dupuy, 160-pound veteran. Jack Sarson, a veteran and captain elect of basketball, spreads the rug with his blocks for the boys to dance across.

Five of the seven line-men were regulars last fall. Vin Kaseta, 175, and Lou Goeres, 180, hold down the ends; Lloyd Hill, 175, is a capable tackle; Joe Doyle, 160, and Ed Pideon, 175, are outstanding at guards. Pideon has been idled by blood poisoning this week so that Walt Leonardi, 175, may start the Newton game Saturday.

With such experienced material, Coach Marion Roberts had little fear in sending sophomore Dino Columbo, 165, to center, and Robert "Red" Grows, 170, to a tackle.

Asst. Coach Frank Saba, captain of Brockton's last State titlists, feels that this new team would whip his former crownholders. This new club, which he helped organize, has more fight, hits harder, has better blockers and tacklers.

Other Brockton players who will see service include: backs—Jerry Wallen, Ed Piscuskus, Bob Swanson, Bill Nixon, Bob Williams; ends — Bob Poudrier, Wayne Alden; Al Zarella; tackles —Bill Campbell, Fran Jackson, Pete George; guards—Bob Kane, Charlie Bornstein, John Imhoff; centers — Maurice Hancock; Al Zarella.

The Shoe City schedule, after Newton, lists: New Bedford, Oct. 20; Rindge Tech, Oct. 27; (at) Malden, Nov. 4; (at) Manchester Central, Nov. 11; Weymouth, Nov. 18, and Waltham, Thanksgiving Day.

Tigers Take Dizziest Series

By JOE CASHMAN

CHICAGO, Oct. 11—The World Series is over except for the mailing out of checks to the victorious Detroit Tigers and the vanquished Chicago Cubs.

It was a classic which proved richer financially and poorer athletically than any other ever staged.

It set records for receipts, attendance, players used and plays gummed up.

Steve O'Neill

The Tigers won it the hard way. The American League champions look like chumps in the first three games on their own Briggs Stadium. They lost two out of three and they were whitewashed in each defeat.

Then they turned around to take three out of four and win the title on the Cubs' Wrigley Field.

Thus they lived up to their reputation of always being able to win the games they had to win to stay on top of the heap.

Way back on June 12 they gained the roof in the American League. They clung to it tenaciously right to the end. At times they were only half a game in front of some rival. At times they were only a fraction of a point in front. But they were never off the top.

They made enough mistakes and misplays during the series competition to lose 20 ball games but when the chips were down yesterday they banged over five runs in the very first inning to jump into a lead which enabled Hal 'Lefty' Newhouser to breeze to his second win in three starts. 9-3.

They demonstrated they had sounder pitching and a more powerful punch than the Cubs.

So nobody can say they didn't deserve the triumph, even though their play the greater part of the time left much to be desired.

The Cubs, after a fast start, simply ran out of steam.

When they had to use every one of their "big four" pitching staff in winning the 12-inning sixth game, the National Leaguers didn't have a well-rested flinger for the deciding tilt.

Hal Newhouser also chipped in with 10 strikeouts to add to nine he fashioned last Sunday and three he hung up before being chased to the showers in the third inning of the first game.

Twenty-two strikeouts in less than 21 innings stamped him as the pitcher who showed the most stuff in the series, though the best single exhibition of slinging in the engagement was the one-hit effort of Cub Passeau in the third game. That was the finest World Series pitching ever.

The Tigers' standout taking the series as a whole, was Capt. Hank Greenberg. His home run bat won the pennant for the Tigers. It saved the series for them. It gave them their first victory. It aided them materially in their second and third wins. It kept the whole team alive just when it looked as though it was going to curl up and die.

Next to "Hank," the Tigers' top liners were Richards and Old "Doc" Cramer. The old Red Sox center fielder had his moments afield but had the highest batting average and most hits of any.

The Cubs' standouts were three —Phil Cavaretta, Stan Hack and Peanuts Lowery.

Yankee Manager Praises O'Neill

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 11 (AP)—Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, congratulated Tiger Manger Steve O'Neill today for his "masterful judgment in handling players, especially his pitchers."

McCarthy, who is at his nearby farm, said he had actually expected Detroit to win the World Series in six games. "It's tough on old Charlie Grimm," he asserted. "He made a grand try, but guessed wrong on the last day."

'Smear Is On' Says Chandler

VERSAILLES, Ky., Oct. 11 (AP)—United States Senator-Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler said at his home here today he "obviously" had been attacked in an organized smear campaign designed to discredit him in his new baseball office.

Referring to published reports that differences of opinion existed between himself and baseball club owners and that the owners were attempting to buy off his commissioner contract, Chandler said:

"It is obvious there has been a smear campaign worked up against me which has been paid for. I don't know who was behind it and I am not interested, because it didn't get any place. My position is solid."

At the same time, Chandler said he had not mailed his resignation as Senator to Gov. Simeon Willis of eKntucky, had not yet written it and was not sure just when he would mail it.

"I am not going to let the Governor read by resignation in the papers," he stated. "It will be announced by the Governor himself."
